“ When Jen was a little girl, she could maneuver gifts out of her maternal grandparents like crazy. We finally told her she could NOT ask my mom and dad for anything else. Later, they were in the DFW airport and saw a stuffed seal on display. Remembering our directions, she hemmed and hawed for a bit, and then finally told my dad, "i don't HAVE one a' THOSE."
She got her seal.

“ Many good memories with Jennifer...we taught together at Laurel High....spent many MANY evenings chaperoning events....and also playing groupies for her husband's band. Played the piano at their wedding. Drove them around on their wedding night. Lots of good memories. Jennifer you will be missed. Gone way too soon girl....

“ She told me that her first physics lesson was when she did something bad so she was told to get a stick for her beating. She went outside and got a small, thin stick thinking that a small, thin stick wouldn't hurt as much as a big, thick one would. When she went inside with the stick her dad said " Are you sure that this is the stick that you want?" she said " Yep." her dad said " Okay." and he hit her butt with it and she said that it hurt like the Dickens. We laughed and laughed because I thought it funny and apparently she did to. I miss her and her stories so much.

“ My deepest sympathy. May you find hope in the promise of the resurrection.-Acts 24:15. Resurrection is a standing up again, a coming to life. It is the hope of seeing Jennifer again. May this God given promise and your good memories bring you a measure of hope and comfort.
