“ Rusty was my walking partner many years ago and the best therapist a girl could ask for. He was such a good listener. He had a heart of gold and never a harsh word about anyone. He was like a brother to me and I am sure many others felt the same. My one regret is that we were going to get together this summer and never got the chance. Tomorrow will be a tough day but I know he will be very proud to realize how much he was loved. Love you sweetie and will miss you. Terri

“ Russ,

I am going to miss your honesty, caring, giving personality! I will cherish all the times we spent together and shared. The times we shared is when you spent the weekends at my house and we just chatted about anything and everything! I remember all the talks we had about how you loved your family and Maddie! You touched many people in ways you never knew. You were a clean freak which made me laugh when you would post on facebook about cleaning, mopping and what was for dinner. I know you are up in Heaven probably cleaning in between watching over your loved ones. Your light and memory will be with all of us always! I will never forget when I parked on the lawn in front of Troy's house and you could not get past it like we broke the highest law in the land. I know I am honored to be called your friend! You have helped me grow in many ways as a person because you were you! We are all shedding tears and hurting at this time but under it all we all are fortunate to have met you and love you!

For all of the Henman family, I know we have heard of each other and have not really met, but please realize that Russ, was special to MANY people who loved him as family. I am praying for all of you during this difficult and tragic time.

“ Mom Joyce, we want you to know that Rusty was so happy, so full of life, and looking forward to helping others. We are all following your steps in sorrow. He was so good to each person he loved, and made us laugh and smile so easily. I am a better person for the few years of friendship shared with him, but I will be forever making reference to his quips and quotes, and gestures - as will many others. Thank you for bringing such an angel into our lives. We are forever blessed by his love. Jaime Schneider, Rehoboth Beach, Delaware.

“ Dear Joyce,

I am so very sorry about the death of your son, Rusty. We never consider that our children will go before us. It seems so out of order. The loss of a child is the most difficult of all life's trials. I know this heartache, since my son died in 2005. May God give you His comfort and peace as only He can in this very hard time, and the difficult days ahead. This Scripture verse has been such an encouragement to me in difficult times. May it encourage your heart today. Isaiah 40:29 "He gives power to the faint, And to him who has no might He increases strength."

*Love in Christ,
